

Grade 4 - twisted fables

MIS: Twisted Fables

Narrator:

"Hey there, friends! Ready for another adventure through time? Today, we'll explore how communication has evolved—from grunting to texting—and, sprinkled throughout, are some hilariously modernized fables that you won't believe. We've got AI, social media, and even a bit of TikTok drama in these stories. So sit tight, because it's about to get real funny in here!"

Scene 1: The Grunt Era – A Very Basic Start

Narrator: (Roll no. 1)

"Alright, picture this: Long before anyone said 'hello,' humans communicated with grunts, gestures, and a lot of pointing. It was basically the first emoji language—but without the cute faces."

Fable #1: The Goose That Laid Golden Eggs (But Was Also an Influencer)

Characters:

King Midas – The influencer. (Roll no. 2)

The Wise Owl – The rational one. (Roll no. 3)

The Cautious Fox – The cautious one. (Roll no. 4)

The Greedy Squirrel – The "quick fix" guy. (Roll no. 5)

The Voice of Reason – The wise character. (Roll no. 6)

Narrator: (Roll no. 1)

"King Midas had this amazing goose that laid golden eggs. It was a total goldmine—but King Midas had an idea. He wanted MORE followers, more likes, more eggs. He decided his goose was going to be an influencer."

Scene:

King Midas is snapping selfies with the goose, posting to Instagram.

King Midas: (posing)

"Guys, you won't believe it! My goose just laid another golden egg—this is LEGENDARY.

Hashtag #GoldenEggGoals. This is gonna get me so many followers!"

The Wise Owl: (rolling her eyes)

"King Midas, are you seriously just using that poor goose for likes?"

The Greedy Squirrel: (with a dramatic sigh)

"You know what would get you more followers? If you made the goose lay ALL the eggs at once! Like, tomorrow. Imagine that—viral! You'd be a millionaire."

The Voice of Reason: (shaking her head)

"King Midas, sometimes you have to appreciate what you have, not just chase the next big thing. Don't ruin it just for clout."

The Cautious Fox: (seriously)

"Yeah, remember the 'broke influencer' story? You can't just kill the goose for a quick gain. Focus on what's real."

Narrator:

"King Midas didn't listen. He thought he could just get rich and famous by cutting open the goose to find more golden eggs. And guess what? There were no golden eggs inside. The moral of the story? Chasing quick fame and ignoring the good things you already have can backfire. Communicate with patience—don't rush!"

Scene 2: Cave Paintings – The First 'Social Media Post'

Narrator: (Roll no. 7)

"Before there were likes and hashtags, there were cave paintings. Humans communicated by drawing pictures. Kind of like an early version of Instagram... but way messier and with no filters."

Fable #2: The Slave and the Lion (Now With AI)

Characters:

The Lion – The brave but overconfident guy. (Roll no. 8)

The Mouse – The small but helpful friend. (Roll no. 9)

The Fox – The tech-savvy problem solver. (Roll no. 10)

The Donkey – The logical thinker. (Roll no. 11)

The Crow – The no-nonsense friend. (Roll no. 12)

Narrator: (Roll no. 7)

"One day, the Lion was strolling through the forest when he bumped into a trap. Now, the Lion wasn't just any lion—it was a social media star, and the Mouse wanted to help. But before he could even post the pic, he made a big mistake."

Scene:

The Lion stands confidently in front of the trap.

The Lion: (all bold)

"Yo, mouse! What's up? I'm the king of the jungle, no one can stop me."

The Mouse: (running up nervously)

"Don't worry, Lion! I'll help you!"

The Lion: (surprised)

"You? You're so small! What can you do?"

The Mouse: (determined)

"I may be small, but I can still help. Let me try!"

The Mouse gnaws through the ropes and frees the Lion.

The Lion: (grateful)

"Thank you, Mouse! I never thought you could help me, but you did!"

The Fox: (smiling)

"See, Lion, you never know who might come to your rescue. Even the smallest friend can make a big difference!"

The Donkey: (nodding)

"Kindness and helping others, no matter their size, are always important."

The Crow: (seriously)

"Remember, kindness is the best way to communicate with others. You never know when you might need someone's help."

Narrator:

"The lesson here? Even if someone seems small or less important, kindness and helping others can make a huge difference. Everyone has something valuable to offer."

Scene 3: Smoke Signals – A Real 'Fire' Message

Narrator: (Roll no. 13)

"Long before texting, people used smoke signals to communicate over long distances. It's kind of like sending a text message... if your phone was made of smoke and your signal could be seen from miles away."

Fable #3: The Vain Crow (And Her Filter Addiction)

Characters:

The Crow – The crow who's obsessed with filters. (Roll no. 14)

The Grasshopper – The friend who doesn't care about filters. (Roll no. 15)

The Ant – The one who always gives advice. (Roll no. 16)

The Sparrow – The thoughtful one. (Roll no. 17)

The Raven – The wise one. (Roll no. 18)

Narrator: (Roll no. 13)

"Once upon a time, the Crow was obsessed with looking perfect. Not in real life—but online. She couldn't go a minute without adding filters to her selfies."

Scene:

The Crow is staring at her phone, adjusting filters on her latest selfie.

The Crow: (checking herself out in the mirror)

"Okay, I need more sparkle in my feathers. Maybe a 'sunset glow' filter? Ooh, now I look perfect!"

The Grasshopper: (laughing)

"Crow, you already look great! Why are you messing with your feathers? Just post it!"

The Ant: (offering advice)

"You know, Crow, sometimes the best version of yourself is just the real you. Filters can only do so much."

The Sparrow: (gently)

"Yeah, if you're not careful, you'll lose the 'real' you. It's better to communicate as your true self."

The Raven: (seriously)

"People like you because of who you are, not because of your filters. Just be yourself!"

Narrator:

"The moral of the story? No matter how many filters you use, true beauty (and communication) comes from within. Don't hide behind a fake version of yourself."

Scene 4: The Telephone – "Hello, Can You Hear Me Now?"

Narrator: (Roll no. 19)

"Fast forward to the 19th century! The telephone was invented! Now you can talk to anyone, anywhere, anytime! But... sometimes, that call doesn't go quite as planned."

Fable #4: The Fox and the Grapes (Now in HD)

Characters:

The Fox – The determined guy. (Roll no. 20)

The Grapes – The grapes that are too high to reach. (Roll no. 21)

The Owl – The "realistic" one. (Roll no. 22)

The Goat – The go-getter. (Roll no. 23)

The Tortoise – The wise one. (Roll no. 24)

Narrator: (Roll no. 19)

"The Fox was walking through the forest when he saw the most delicious grapes hanging from a vine. He was determined to get them, but no matter how hard he tried, he just couldn't reach them."

Scene:

The Fox is jumping and stretching, trying to reach the grapes.

The Fox: (grumbling)

"Ugh! I can't reach those grapes! I bet they're super sour anyway. Who needs 'em?"

The Owl: (laughing)

"Yeah, right. If you can't get them, they're probably sour. It's like when you can't get that new game you wanted, and you tell yourself, 'I didn't even want it!'"

The Goat: (smiling)

"Well, if you really want them, why not ask for help or get a ladder? There's always a way."

The Tortoise: (warning)

"Fox, don't just talk yourself out of wanting something just because it's hard to get.

Communication isn't just about talking—it's about figuring things out."

Narrator: (Roll no. 19)

"The moral of the story? Just because something's out of reach doesn't mean it's not worth trying for. Don't settle for less just because things are tough."

Scene 5: The Internet and Social Media – Post, Like, Share!

Narrator: (Roll no. 25)

"And now, welcome to the world of the internet! Texting, social media, and memes have changed the way we communicate. But sometimes, even the coolest technology can lead to some funny misunderstandings."

Fable #5: The Ant and the Grasshopper (Now with TikTok)

Characters:

The Ant – The hardworking one. (Roll no. 26)

The Grasshopper – The laid-back one. (Roll no. 27)

The Deer – The one always posting selfies. (Roll no. 28)

The Butterfly – The planner. (Roll no. 29)

The Fox – The wise one. (Roll no. 30)

Narrator: (Roll no. 25)

"The Ant was all about working hard. He spent his summer collecting food for the winter. The Grasshopper, on the other hand, was busy making TikToks."

Scene:

The Ant is hauling food to his house, while the Grasshopper is dancing and filming a TikTok video.

The Ant: (sighing)

"Grasshopper, you really need to start preparing for winter. It's coming soon!"

The Grasshopper: (distracted, laughing)

"I'm good, Ant! I'm getting tons of likes on this dance. Who cares about work when you can go viral?"

The Deer: (watching the video)

"Whoa, Grasshopper's got like 100,000 views already. She's basically a TikTok star!"

The Butterfly: (warning)

"Grasshopper, you can't dance your way through winter. You need to plan ahead!"

The Fox: (calmly)

"The Ant is right. Work now, relax later. Grasshopper, maybe spend a little less time on TikTok and more time preparing for the future."

Narrator: (Roll no. 25)

"The moral of the story? Don't procrastinate or get distracted by instant gratification. Planning for the future and balancing work and play is key to communication and success."

Conclusion:

Narrator: (Roll no. 31)

"So there you have it! From grunting to texting, from smoke signals to TikTok, communication has evolved a ton over the years. But one thing's for sure: the lessons from these fables still matter today. Whether you're talking face-to-face or using the latest tech, it's all about being real, listening, and communicating with patience and balance. Thanks for joining us on this wild ride—see you next time! And remember... keep it real, communicate kindly, and always watch out for lions... and TikTok dances!"

Today, we're embarking on a magical journey where Frozen meets The Lion King, Brave crosses paths with Kung Fu Panda, and The Jungle Book joins in for an unforgettable experience! Our heroes are about to discover that being a leader is not just about being strong—it's about teamwork, creativity, and a little bit of fun! Let's jump right in!"

Act 1: Frozen and Brave – The Snowy Archery Challenge

Characters:

- Anna (Frozen)
 - Elsa (Frozen)
 - Merida (Brave)
 - Mulan (Mulan)

Narrator: "Somewhere in the snowy mountains of Arendelle, Anna and Elsa are feeling adventurous. They bump into Merida, who's practicing archery. But wait—things are about to get a bit chaotic!"

Scene:

Anna and Elsa are walking through the snowy forest when they find Merida aiming her bow at a target.

Anna (excitedly): "Whoa! Look at you go, Merida! I want to try that! I bet I'm good at archery too."

Elsa (smiling): "I'll pass. Ice magic is more my thing."

Merida (grinning): "Are you sure? Archery is all about focus and precision... Can you handle that, Anna?"

Anna (confidently): "Of course! How hard can it be? I just need to aim, right?"

Anna grabs an arrow and accidentally shoots it into a snowbank, missing the target completely.

Tiana (entering from the side): "Well, honey, you might be better off cooking up a storm than shooting arrows."

Mulan (laughing): "I think she's got the enthusiasm, but not the aim."

Elsa, deciding to give it a try, uses her ice powers to create a bow made of ice. She shoots an arrow, but it freezes too fast and shatters.

Elsa (shrugging): "Well, that's one way to make an impact."

Narrator: "While Elsa's ice arrow turned into a snowstorm and Anna's aim was... let's just say, off, they all agreed that teamwork was the real magic. And with some practice, they might just become the best archers in the land."

Act 2: The Lion King and Frozen – The Feast at Pride Rock

Characters:

- Simba (The Lion King)
 - Timon (The Lion King)

Scene:

Simba, Timon, and Pumbaa are setting up a large banquet at Pride Rock. Anna and Elsa arrive, looking both curious and skeptical.

Timon (excitedly): "Welcome to Pride Rock, folks! We've got an all-you-can-eat Hakuna Matata feast. No worries, just food!"

Pumbaa (grinning): "You've never tasted anything like this—it's wild, like us!"

Anna eagerly grabs a plate of jungle fruit and takes a big bite.

Anna (making a face): "Whoa! This is so... sweet. It's like eating a candy explosion."

Elsa (tentatively taking a bite): "Not bad... but I think I prefer the cold food. Like icy fruit salad."

Simba (laughing): "You two have no idea what you're missing. This is the real jungle cuisine—no ice involved."

Timon (joking): "Yeah, Elsa, just imagine trying to freeze one of our snacks! It's like trying to freeze air!"

Anna (laughing): "Okay, okay, maybe we're better at freezing snow than food."

Narrator: "Despite the unusual food choices, Anna and Elsa soon learned that sometimes the best things in life are the ones that don't need to be frozen—like good company and a little bit of adventure."

Act 3: The Jungle Book and Kung Fu Panda – The Impersonation Challenge

Scene:

Mowgli, Baloo, Bagheera, Po, and Shifu are sitting at a table when the challenge begins.

Po (munching on noodles): "I'm the king of Kung Fu... but I'm also the king of impersonations! Watch this."

Po dramatically impersonates Baloo, flopping onto the ground and groaning.

Po (as Baloo): "Hey, Mowgli, I'm just gonna take a nap. You guys do all the hard work. Zzzzz."

Mowgli (laughing): "Oh, that's too good! But can you do me? Watch this!"

Mowgli gets up and dramatically mimics Shifu's serious face.

Mowgli (as Shifu): "Po, you need to focus, focus, and then focus some more. No snacks until the mission is complete!"

Shifu (raising an eyebrow): "Hey, that's actually pretty accurate."

Baloo (chuckling): "I think I can do one too! Watch this."

Baloo tries to impersonate Bagheera, but ends up looking more like a big fluffy mess.

Baloo (as Bagheera): "Mowgli, I told you—don't swing on that tree! You're so reckless! But... eh, maybe it's fun?"

The whole group bursts out laughing.

Narrator: "And so, after lots of laughter and ridiculous impressions, they learned that sometimes it's good to laugh at yourself—and that no matter how different they were, they could always have fun together."

Scene:

Anna, Elsa, Merida, Simba, Timon, and Pumbaa are standing in front of an enchanted castle, ready to compete.

Simba (seriously): "A kingdom needs strength. That's what makes a leader."

Timon (mocking): "Yeah, yeah, strength. But what about fun? If we all don't laugh, we'll be in trouble."

Merida (grinning): "Strength and fun are important, but don't forget courage. You have to be brave to lead."

Elsa (calmly): "Kindness is important, too. A good leader listens to others and helps them."

Anna (enthusiastically): "And a good leader always has fun! So, let's make this a team challenge!"

They all agree, and together, they create an awesome strategy to solve the problem, combining their strengths in creative ways. Afterward, they celebrate with a dance and laughter.

Narrator: "In the end, they realized that leadership isn't about being perfect or strongest—it's about working together and bringing out the best in each other. And most importantly, knowing that teamwork makes the dream work."

End of Skit:

Narrator: "Thank you for joining us today on this incredible journey! Whether you're at MIS International School, the Pride Lands, or in a snowy kingdom, leadership is about friendship, teamwork, and having fun along the way. We hope you had as much fun as we did today. Remember—it's the friends we make, the teamwork we build, and the laughs we share that make life truly magical!"

Longer Version of script for grade 4

MIS: Twisted Fables

Narrator:

"Welcome, everyone! Today's fables have been reimagined with some creative twists. We've taken classic stories and given them new life, with a mix of humor, life lessons, and some unexpected moments. Let's get started!"

Fable #1: The Goose That Laid Golden Eggs (But Is Also an Influencer)

Characters:

Max – The aspiring influencer.

Sophie – The practical one.

Emma – The cautious one.

Ryan – The quick-fix thinker.

Zoe – The voice of reason.

Narrator:

"Max discovered a goose that lays golden eggs, but instead of being thankful, he decided, 'Let's make this goose a social media sensation!' Here's how it unfolded."

Scene:

Max is setting up a ring light and holding a phone in front of a goose. The goose is trying to lay an egg.

Max: (smiling)

"Okay, goose, here's the plan: You lay some golden eggs, and we'll make a challenge out of it. We'll be famous!"

Sophie: (disappointed)

"Max, I can't believe you're making the goose do this. It's a living creature, not a tool for content!"

Ryan: (looking at his phone)

"A viral video of a goose laying a golden egg would definitely get attention. You'll be famous. Forget about college, just start a YouTube channel."

Zoe: (seriously)

"You realize that this goose could get worn out, right? Just like influencers who post too much and lose their appeal? Do you really want to pressure the goose into laying eggs constantly? It's not a content factory!"

Emma: (raising an eyebrow)

"Yeah, Max. What's next? You make it wear a hat for your merchandise?"

Max starts recording, but the goose just stares at him.

Max: (nervously)

"Come on, goose! One more egg for the camera... Just one more!"

Sophie: (sighing)

"This isn't working. The goose is over it."

Ryan: (laughing)

"Maybe the goose wants to be left alone. Maybe it just wants to be a goose again."

Narrator:

"Max eventually realized that treating the goose like a social media star didn't make sense. Sometimes the best content is just appreciating what you have. The moral of the story? Don't overdo it trying to go viral. Appreciate what's already amazing, even if it doesn't come with an influencer contract."

Fable #2: The Slave and the Lion (Now With AI)

Characters:

Ryan – The overly confident person.

Zoe – The tech expert.

Lily – The sensible one.

Max – The technology enthusiast.

Emma – The wise one.

Narrator:

"Ryan found himself face-to-face with a lion. But this wasn't just any lion—it had its own AI assistant. Here's how the encounter unfolded."

Scene:

Ryan is trying to take a selfie with the lion, who is too busy checking emails on its tablet.

Ryan: (grinning)

"Alright, lion! Say 'cheese' for the camera! You're going to be a sensation on the internet."

Zoe: (checking her phone)

"Ryan, the lion has an AI assistant. It's probably going to send a 'no selfies' message. Do you really think the lion cares about your selfie?"

Max: (excitedly)

"I think the lion's trying to book a gig with a new Netflix series! Maybe it's too busy to smile for your picture."

Ryan: (laughing)

"Well, it better make some time for me, because I'm about to make this lion famous!"

The lion roars and taps its AI assistant.

Lion: (in a regal voice)

"AI Assistant, cancel my appointment with the hyenas. And also—no more selfies. Ryan, your followers are not my priority right now."

Zoe: (shaking her head)

"See, Ryan? This lion doesn't care about fame. It has work to do. Your internet popularity means nothing to it."

Max: (grinning)

"Sorry, but the lion's already involved in multiple projects. It doesn't need your 'likes' to succeed."

Narrator:

"Ryan learned that even AI and fame can't change the fact that some things don't go as expected. The moral? Don't risk your life for internet fame. Sometimes it's better to step back and appreciate the present."

Fable #3: The Vain Crow (And Her Filter Addiction)

Characters:

Zoe – The crow obsessed with filters.

Ryan – The one who doesn't care about filters.

Max – The advisor.

Sophie – The thoughtful friend.

Emma – The wise one.

Narrator:

"Zoe the crow loved looking perfect on social media, and she loved filters even more. The only problem? She didn't realize the truth about beauty until it was too late."

Scene:

Zoe is scrolling through her Instagram, adding a new filter every time she takes a photo. She looks at her reflection in a pond, but her reflection is covered in rainbow sparkles.

Zoe: (laughing)

"Wow, I look amazing! Filtered to perfection! Who needs natural beauty?"

Ryan: (looking at Zoe's phone, unamused)

"Zoe, you're glowing in a way no one else can. This looks like an ad for toothpaste. Maybe ease up on the filters?"

Max: (grinning)

"Come on, Zoe, that's not real beauty. You're like a glitter bomb right now."

Sophie: (shaking her head)

"Seriously, Zoe. The real beauty is in your natural feathers. Stop using that sparkle filter. No one's going to know who you really are behind all the effects."

Emma: (calmly)

"Yeah, Zoe. Filters can be fun, but they shouldn't replace your true self. Don't hide who you really are to impress others online."

Zoe stares at her reflection, realizing it looks exaggerated.

Zoe: (sighing)

"Okay, okay. Maybe I went too far. But it's just... when you get likes, you feel special. I didn't want to lose that feeling."

Ryan: (smiling)

"Zoe, you're special without the filters. Just be yourself. People will appreciate you more for who you truly are."

Narrator:

"And just like that, Zoe learned to love her unfiltered self. The moral of the story? You're amazing just the way you are. Don't let filters make you forget that."

Fable #4: The Fox and the Grapes (Now in HD)

Characters:

Ryan – The determined person.
Max – The realistic one.
Sophie – The go-getter.
Zoe – The voice of reason.
Emma – The peacemaker.

Narrator:

"Ryan was determined to get the juiciest, most succulent grapes. But as usual, the grapes were just out of reach. What did he do next? Let's find out."

Scene:

Ryan is jumping up, trying to reach the grapes hanging high in the tree.

Ryan: (grunting)

"I can do this. Just a little higher... Almost there..."

Max: (laughing)

"Ryan, those grapes are practically on the moon. You need a rocket, not a jump!"

Sophie: (cheering him on)

"Don't give up, Ryan! Just hire a drone or something. You can do this!"

Zoe: (calmly)

"Ryan, sometimes you just need to accept that some things aren't for you. Maybe those grapes aren't meant to be."

Emma: (nodding)

"Yeah, if you can't get them, it's okay. There are other fruits to enjoy, maybe try some watermelon or an apple."

Ryan gives up and sits under the tree.

Ryan: (sighing)

"Fine, I admit it. I can't get those grapes. But who needs them? I bet they're sour anyway."

Sophie: (grinning)

"Exactly! Sour grapes are the worst. Let's go grab something better instead."

Narrator:

"Ryan learned that sometimes it's better to move on from things that are out of your reach. The moral? If something is too difficult to obtain, maybe it's not as worthwhile as you think."

Fable #5: The Ant and the Grasshopper (Now with TikTok)

Characters:

Max – The hardworking ant.
Sophie – The carefree grasshopper.
Ryan – The selfie enthusiast.
Zoe – The planner.
Emma – The wise one.

Narrator:

"Max the ant worked hard all summer collecting food for the winter, while Sophie the grasshopper spent her time dancing on TikTok. But when winter arrived, who was prepared? Let's find out!"

Scene:

Max is carrying food into his house. Sophie is nearby, recording a dance video.

Max: (panting)

"Sophie, you need to take winter seriously! The cold is coming, and you're still dancing in the sun!"

Sophie: (laughing)

"Max, relax! I'm going viral right now! I've got 200,000 followers, I'll be famous next week. Who cares about winter?"

Ryan: (grinning)

"She's got more followers than you have snacks, Max! Sophie's the real winner here."

Zoe: (sighing)

"Guys, focus! Max is right. You can't live off TikTok fame when the cold hits. It's going to be freezing out there!"

Emma: (wisely)

"Sometimes you need to balance the fun with the work. Go ahead and make your videos, Sophie, but don't forget to prepare for the future."

Sophie shrugs but continues dancing.

Sophie: (confidently)

"I'll figure it out. I'll just make a snow dance video! People love winter content."

Narrator:

"But when the snow came, Sophie learned the hard way that fame doesn't keep you warm. The moral? Don't forget to prepare for the future, even when the present seems carefree."

Narrator:

"And that's it, everyone! Another set of fables with modern twists. Remember, you don't need to chase fame or perfection to be great—just find balance and be wise!"
